KELLER AND DALBY.

Named for the State Senate and Legislators by the Prohibitionists.

The Prohibition senatorial convention for the 41st district was held this afternoon in the W. C. T. U. rooms, in Library Block. Delegates were present from Macon, Moultrie and Christian counties, but less than 30 people were in attendance. A. F. Smith, of Decatur, the party nominee for congress, was the chairman of the convention and the active spirit throughout the proceedings, checking any attempt to smash the slate, and promptly seconding each nomination. An effort was made to put up W. C. Outten for the senate, and then it was that Mr. Smith called a gentleman to the chair in order that he might give the delegates a hint as to what had been agreed upon long before the convention was called to order, and the plan that Candidate Smith suggested was then promptly carried through.

Dr. A. L. Keller, the venerable physician of Sullivan, Moultrie county, was nominated for State Senator, and William Dalby, a farmer residing within a mile of Taylorville, in Christian county, was named for Representative. Both nominations were by acclamation.

Mr. Smith suggested that each county select a gentleman to serve as a member of the senatorial committee, and while the choir waited, S. R. Gher and Phyl J. Smith led in singing "America."

Several gentlemen delivered prohibition speeches and the convention adjourned.

Died in New York.

We are in receipt of copies of the city papers, of Ogdensburg, N. Y., containing the particulars of the life and death of Alphonso D. Douglas. The deceased had two brothers, one residing in New York and the other, Passenger Director Tracy W. Douglas, of this city, who was with him at the time of his death, which occurred on Friday, August 31. The deceased was a conductor on the O. & L. C. R., and his death was caused by peritonitis.

Provoked the Dago.

A young man this morning, who had looked on the wine too long, stopped at one of the banana stands in charge of a dago and proceeded to take charge of the place. (The dago did not wish trouble and retreated. The young man followed and chased Mr. Italian into a store, when a mutual friend stepped up and parted them. It is said the dago was armed with a knife. There were no arrests.

Century Club Meeting.

To-night at the Y. M. C. A. rooms a meeting of wheelmen will be held to complete the organization and elect officers of the Y. M. C. A. Century Club. Quite a number of young men have qualified themselves for membership by riding centuries. All wheelmen invited. A good meeting is promised.

A DARING ROBBERY.

The Wabash Ticket Office at Springfield Looted at Noon Yesterday.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 3.—A daring robbery was perpetrated in the heart of the city to-day. During the absence at dinner of Ticket Agent Ralph Fleming, two men broke into the Wabash ticket office through a rear window. The safe was unlocked and they secured $1,000 in currency, leaving $500 in coin. The only occupant of the waiting rooms, Miss Mary Sullivan, deaf and dumb, whom one man terrorized by signs and prevented from giving the alarm to George Monahan, the man in charge of the lunch counter, who could not see into the ticket office.

The thieves got away with $1,200. Mr. Swift, the ticket agent was in Lincoln, and his assistant was out for dinner. The iron rods on the back windows were filed off, the combination of the safe worked, and the cash secured. In their haste to depart the thieves dropped about $200 on the floor. The depot is in the center of the city, and the ticket office window within 10 feet of a lunch counter.

DIAMONDS AS PRIZES.

Springfield Wants the Wheelmen During the State Fair.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 3.—The chairman of the executive committee of the Cycling Club has issued a circular letter to all wheelmen inclosing a list of prizes to be given for the diamond bicycle races on Saturday at the state fair, with blanks for entries, etc. The following are the prizes:

One mile novice, diamond ring, scarf pin and racing pedals; half mile open, diamond ring, diamond stud and pearl scarf pin; one mile open, diamond rings (three prizes), the first being worth $150; two mile handicap, diamond ring, diamond scarf pin and sweater; one-quarter mile open, diamond ring, diamond stud and scarf pin; two mile handicap, Capital City Club, three diamond rings and racing saddle; mile, two diamond rings and silver smoking set; one-quarter mile open to fifty, diamond rings and diamond stud; five-mile handicap, open to fifty, diamond rings, diamond scarf pin and sweater.

Burial in the Catholic Cemetery.

The funeral of the late Thomas Finn, which took place to-day from St. Patrick's Catholic church, was very largely attended, all of the pews in the church being occupied. Solemn requiem mass was observed. The remains were borne to the Catholic cemetery west of the city, followed by a long cortege. It was the most largely attended funeral lately witnessed in Decatur. Mr. Finn had lived in Decatur since 1864 and was personally known to hundreds of our people as an honest and upright citizen. The pallbearers were John Murphy, John Winter, Frank Skelley, Mark Moran, John Dinneen and Samuel Carson.

A Will.

The will of the late Sylvester M. Currier, of Argenta, was presented in the county court today for probate. After the payment of all debts and funeral expenses it is directed the property be given to the widow, to Clarence B. Currier, Charles M. Currier, and Georgiana W. Deaton. The testator's watch and chain are given to Charles Currier. The executor is Clarence B. Currier without bail.

The Democratic hippodrome that is advertised to show two days in Decatur this month, opens up a splendid opportunity to recognize Democrats, who are known to have become disgusted with the Democratic party, by putting them on committees in the hope that they may be held in the party in that way.

DEMOCRATIC papers are now declaring that Cleveland and Wilson and the other Democrats in congress do not mean what they said about the present tariff bill being only a step in the direction of tariff tinkering, and are asking the business men of the country not to be alarmed over the apparent threat. Does anybody know what the Democrats will or will not do?

New Markets.

Those Democratic statesmen who prate about tariff reform, talk about opening the markets of the world to our products. There are but two ways that the American manufacturer can secure a foothold in any foreign market. The one is by the quality and price of his goods. His goods must be as good as those made in any other competing country, and he must at least be able to sell them as cheap. Without these conditions he is but beating the wind in his effort to secure a foreign market. The other is by contract—reciprocity.

There are, however, nations that impose a duty on manufactured and other products coming into them for consumption. To temper this condition the Republicans, when enacting the McKinley tariff law, made a reciprocity provision empowering the president to impose a duty on certain products, principally sugar, coffee and tea, imported from such countries into this for consumption, as refused to enter into an agreement with this country to admit free, or at a low duty, such farm and manufactured products as might be agreed upon. Under the reciprocity provision of the McKinley law many such agreements were made by President Harrison, with other nations and our foreign trade was being rapidly enlarged when the present administration came into power. By these contracts our farmers and manufacturers were given an advantage in foreign markets, without lowering American wages, that they had not heretofore enjoyed as in these respects we became a favored nation in our trade with those nations with whom we enjoyed the privileges of those contracts which were not conceded to nations competing with us for these markets, while at the same time our own market for our own agricultural and other products was being enlarged through the widening of our markets.

All this magnificent and logical business method of getting into foreign markets by contract instead of the harder method of competition, has been repealed by the Democratic congress in the new tariff act. This splendid advantage has been surrendered by these barren theorists at one stroke, and our people are left to battle with the problem of holding their own market, which has been exposed to assault by lower duties, and of securing other markets by the harder and more uncertain method of competition. Yet in presence of this deplorable act of perfidy and dishonor, those Democratic statesmen talk to us about opening the markets of the world by such illogical and silly legislation. How are we to do this? Under the new tariff, only by selling in those markets as cheap as competing nations can sell the same products. But the same theorists who have given us the present tariff law assume that it will operate to increase our imports of foreign goods because they can be made cheaper abroad than here. If this be true, then their claim that the new law will open up foreign markets to our people is untrue and a delusion. If the new law lets more goods into this country, the opening of other markets for our people, unless wages are reduced to the European standard is unreasonable. This being true, the cruellest thing in the new tariff law was the destruction of the advantage we had in foreign markets by destroying our reciprocity contracts.

That Act of Infamy.

A correspondent from Washington says Senator Manderson is trying hard to convince Secretary Carlisle of the justice of his decision that no more sugar bounties should be paid. Senator Manderson contends, and it is a common sense contention, that the sugar makers are entitled to the bounty on every pound of sugar made up to the hour that the tariff bill went into effect, and he is not without hope that Secretary Carlisle will reverse his decision, as he has already reversed several other tariff decisions he has made. Whether he succeeds or not, that clause of the tariff bill which repeals the sugar bounty will probably get into the courts sooner or later, as it is contended by many that the government is bound to pay the bounty on this year's crop of sugar of all kinds, because contracts had been made with cane and beet planters and maple syrup gatherers by the sugar manufacturers before it was known that the bounty would be repealed. It is well high certain that these parties will go into court to force the manufacturers to live up to those contracts, and then the manufacturers will plead a breach of faith on the part of the government in repealing the bounty without notice. Good lawyers say that in other cases the government has been compelled to pay damages for injury done to individuals by act of congress, and that the sugar people have a good case.

"Communism of Pelf."

New York Sun (Ind. Dem.): It will seem wonderful to some people that a man with a mind so occupied with professions of all the virtues as Mr. Cleveland should shake hands with such a bandit as Benedict, much less sleep on board his yacht, that pirate's craft, but there is no solid ground for wonder. The fact is that the "communism of pelf" in a letter to Grover Cleveland is merely another case of humbug. When pondered on in soberness it may go a good way toward explaining the fraud of the Democratic tariff bill. Humbug is the idiot mother of fraud. An honest tariff revision on the Democratic principle by Grover Cleveland was beyond the bounds of possibility.

A Special Correspondent at the Scene of the Holocaust.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 3.—A special to the Morning Call from Hinckley, Minn., says: A call reporter boarded the first train out of Pine City for Hinckley at 7 o'clock this morning. It was a work train, but carried many members of the different committees appointed at Pine City last evening. As the train neared Mission Creek the first physical evidences of the great fire became apparent. The whole country was smoldering. The telegraph wires were down, and the scene was one of desolation incarnate. Mission Creek was a small slough surrounded by a potato patch. It was the only house standing. The depot buildings and the mill being but a mass of smoking ruins. The train proceeded slowly three miles further to Hinckley. The roundhouse and coal sheds of the Eastern Minnesota road only remained. West on this road was a long line of smoking ruins of freight cars, probably not less than fifty in number.

The train halted at Hinckley and the scene of woe and desolation which broke upon the vision beggars description. The gaunt skeleton of the public school alone remained standing in the center of the village. Alongside the railroad track were two scores of boxes filled with the bleated and disfigured remains of victims of the fire. The reporter read some of the inscriptions as follows: "Supposed remains of Mrs. Blanchard, horribly distorted," "Girl, 10 years old, no clothing," "Three children of Mrs. Martinson and in the next box Mrs. Martinson laid. Then came John Wendland and child and a number more unidentified.

A Sight to Freeze the Blood. "If you want to see a sight to freeze your blood," said F. J. Donnelly, "go out to the cemetery from which I have just returned." The reporter picked his way through the deserted avenues of the village, encountering the bursting remains of houses, cows, cats, chickens and dogs. He overtook Hans Paulson, an employe in the Brennan mill. "I am going out to the cemetery to see if I can find my wife and four children," he said. "I lost them all. Then he burst into tears.

The rain began pouring down in sheets. We reached the cemetery, a mile and a half from town and noted a half dozen men digging a trench, but the dread horror of that heap of bodies lying on a knoll in the middle of the cemetery. Here were ninety-six bodies, men, women and children, scorched, blackened, distorted, bowels and brains protruding, hands clutched in their final agonies, hair singed from heads. Old, young, male, aged, male and female, all in a dread promiscuous heap. No words of the imagination can describe the dreadful reality. It was there present but even then the mind could hardly accept the evidence. It did not seem that anything so fearful, so unspeakable could result from a few hours' forest fire. Dante never imagined such a scene in the deepest inferno, nor Dore picture so dire a sight.

In another corner of the cemetery were forty-five more bodies, covered with quilts. All were interred late this afternoon.

Hans Paulson's Ghoulish Search. Hans Paulson, who had accompanied the reporter, delved among the horrid pile of bodies five feet high, and finally pulled out the remains of a little female child with only slight shreds of white clothing remaining on her body. He scanned the face, critically examined the clothing and then broke out in lamentations.

"Yes, yes; it is my poor little kid. My God! Yes, it is she; and my other children; oh, where can I find them? How can I hope to identify them in that blackened mass?" But he kept up the quest, and the reporter left him there in the driving storm, a silhouette of human agony outlined against the horizon—a weird and dreadful scene.

The reporter encountered among the ruins of Hinckley a beautiful young girl, who was making a vain search for her trunk. She was dressed in a light colored calico dress which some good Samaritan in Pine City had given her. Her experience was a dramatic one.

Mollie McNeill's Pathetic Story.

"My name is Mollie McNeill," she said, "and I lived with my mother and sister in Hinckley the past sixteen years. I noticed the fire coming at 3:30 Saturday afternoon, and rushed out of the house with two dresses, a grip and two hats and started up the railroad tracks. On both sides and in front of me was a living wall of fire and smoke everywhere. How I ever got through I do not know, for people were falling on every side of me. I kept dropping everything I had. I was twice caught fire. A mile north of Hinckley, I saw an engine. The engineer helped me on and a news agent carried me back to the baggage car. All the cars got on fire and I saw men crazy with fear jump right through the windows into the flame. Think of that! Wasn't it horrible? The train backed up to Skunk Creek, where I remained in the swamp all night. I put my face in the mud to cool it and some one plastered mud all over my hair. Of course, I thought my mother and sister were lost and you may imagine my joy when I found them safe and sound in Pine City yesterday at noon. Mother is over 70 years old and didn't get a scratch. Her hand was but slightly burned. Well, I am thankful and all I want now is to get a situation somewhere and we will begin life anew."

She did not find her trunk.

An Old Operator Who Sacrificed His Life to Duty.

A local searching party this morning found the body of Thomas Dunn, aged 52, late operator at the St. Paul & Duluth station. When the fire started he remained at his post, and it was only when the advancing flames drove him from the station that he left his key. He hurried over to the river and perished there with numerous others. His brother was among the searching party that found his body and he secured his watch and ring, which were the only means of identification.

Robert Dowling, baggage agent at the Hinckley station of the St. Paul & Duluth, was going about this morning with a badly scorched hand and face. He states that there was a large crowd of people at the station waiting for the Duluth limited, due at 4:20 p. m., when the fire came down upon the town with resistless fury, and a gale of wind forcing it at forty miles an hour. Dowling started for his home, but could not get near the house. He ran up the track and fortunately got on the limited a mile north of town. In trying to save a lad from jumping from the train he burned his hand. The boy jumped into the flames alongside the track and perished.

Dowling states that among the intending passengers at Hinckley with whom he talked were a woman and two children for Wyoming and two women and two children for St. Croix Falls, Wis. A girl named Fitzgerald was going to the latter place.

Twenty-One Caskets of Charred and Blackened Remains.

At this writing (12 noon) there are twenty-one caskets containing charred and blackened remains alongside the track at Hinckley. Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 8 were unidentified absolutely. No. 12, Mrs. Sherman and two children; No. 13, Mrs. Sherman and two children; No. 14, Mrs. Hathon and youngest child; No. 15, two children of Mrs. Hathon; No. 16, supposed to be children of Mrs. Hanson; No. 17, Mrs. Costigan and boy; No. 18, two children, supposed to be Costigan's boy of 7; girl, 5 years old, supposed to be a young Currie. These are in addition to the bodies already deposited and awaiting burial in the cemetery trenches.

Searching for the Remains of Missing Friends.

John Blanchard, a St. Paul & Duluth car repairer, who came up from Pine City this morning, after escaping to that town Saturday, was looking for the remains of his wife and children. He found them in caskets at the cemetery and had them removed for shipment to Hinckley for burial.

Lee Webster, president of the village council, reports that his wife is still missing. He is morally sure she is among the lost. The last he saw of her was when he directed her to run to the gravel pit. He was at the cemetery this morning, but failed to identify his wife's remains among the dead. It is now the generally accepted belief that many more people would have been saved at Hinckley had they squatted in the river or stayed in the gravel pits, but everyone was panic stricken. Many who started for the gravel pits, lost heart when they got there and pressed onward to the river and then many of the latter pressed on beyond the river to a neighboring village. All these latter lost their lives.

Nels Anderson, who had a family of six, is satisfied they perished. John Anderson, brother of Nels, perished, together with his wife, daughter and son. John Anderson's son Charlie was cashier in the bank.

At 1 o'clock this afternoon, baggage car No. 7 came up from Pine City loaded with provisions, bread, canned corn, beef, etc. The car was guarded by soldiers of the first regiment. First and foremost the men who had been working since yesterday in the cemetery without food were attended to. Generous provisions were made for those heroic workers. Then the crowd of homeless refugees who surged around the car were attended to. The cabbage which came up on the train was started back to Pine City, and it was crowded with refugees.

An Indescribable Scene of Desolation.

When there is nothing left to describe, it is difficult to portray the situation at Hinckley. A few refugees, a half score searchers, a team or two transporting boxes containing dead bodies, the place where a town had been, but not even smoking ruins to mark the spot. It was a clean-out entirely. The brick veneer, which constituted the outer covering of some of the buildings, had simply fallen into the cellars. It was like looking over the track of a cyclone.

The large majority of those lost were Scandinavians, and many of these, distrustful the banks since last year's panic, carried their savings in their pockets, and where it was in paper money it was, of course, destroyed. Still Adding to the Number of the Lost. Reports continue to come in from the vicinity of Skunk Creek of added discoveries of burned victims. On our arrival at Sandstone it was found that most of the homeless people had been taken to Duluth. Fifty-eight dead were found lying in the streets and in the immediate vicinity of this village. The stench was already beginning. The total will reach fully 400 dead when all the returns are in. Identification is an exceedingly difficult matter, and most of the so-called identifications of dead bodies up to date are mere guesses. It will be fully ten days, perhaps longer, before all the missing are positively located. The registration committee is busily engaged trying to locate people, ascertaining the condition and necessities of all applicants for relief—and this means nearly every survivor from the burned district—and keeping an exact account of every detail. The population of Pokegama aggregated 113 souls last Saturday. Of this number sixteen are known to be burned.

Relief for the Fire Sufferers—Refugees from Sandstone, Etc.

DULUTH, Minn., Sept. 3.—At 7:30 this morning the relief train which left here at 4:15 p. m. yesterday on the Duluth road returned with about 250 refugees who tramped in across country from Sandstone.

At 10:30 a train left here consisting of three coaches, a baggage car and two air-brake box cars, with a large amount of provisions for settlers in the vicinity of Rutledge.

At 9:30 the cheering news came from Rutledge, which is as far as the wire reaches, that rain is falling. All the stations between here and Rutledge report fires dying out and that no further trouble need be feared provided a strong wind does not come up.

Roadmaster Williams telegraphed early this forenoon that he expected to get into Hinckley with a train within a short time. It is understood that there are already relief parties in Hinckley from the south. If the bridge in the village is not destroyed a through train may be expected here before many hours.

The Omaha reports that it is doing nicely to-day. It sent trains from either end this morning. They will probably not be very late. The Chicago limited arrived early this afternoon, being late on account of connections at Eau Claire.

The people at Grand Rapids, on the Mississippi end of the Duluth & Winnipeg road, were ready to move out last night, but fires were averted. During last night there was a bad fire at Constock, on the Omaha, a small settlement twenty miles south of Spooner. As there is no operator there the facts cannot be learned as to the destruction and possible deaths.

Totally Destroyed.

MORA, Minn., Sept. 3.—Broad Park, Pokegama station, a new town on the St. Cloud & Hinckley branch of the Great Northern, was totally destroyed. The flames burned 200,000 feet of lumber, sawmill, hotel, store, post office, schoolhouse and section house. Twenty-five families in the immediate vicinity are homeless. Six thousand tons of hay, twenty head of horses and thirty head of cattle are gone. The total loss of property is estimated at $30,000; no insurance.

An Indescribable Scene.

SHELL LAKE, Wis., Sept. 4.—A scene indescribable was witnessed here yesterday afternoon, when the running fires which had been smoldering south of here, fanned by a fierce gale, penetrated the town. Citizens fled from the place like rats from a sinking ship, taking only a change of clothes and some few valuables. Consternation and panic reigned supreme for awhile, and it was not until after the female portion of the population and the timid ones of the other sex were shipped out of here to Spooner on a special train, that active measures were taken to check the progress of the fire. By great efforts the town was saved from being entirely demolished; about sixty dwellings, however, were destroyed and 300 people made homeless.

Baronette, south of here, is entirely cleared out. So far as known one man, Aleck Erickson, perished in the flames. The loss here is about $100,000. No one is missing here. The settlers in the country are having a hard time, and it was only by heroic efforts that Spooner, north of here, was saved. The insurance here was insignificant. The fires are under perfect control now and watchers are out to see that the smoldering embers do not get a new start. The fire wind has calmed down. The fire sufferers are being fed by the more fortunate.

Passenger and freight traffic has been suspended here for the past two days and telegraphic communication cut off. The total loss in this vicinity is estimated at $400,000.

Arranging for the Relief of the Fire Sufferers.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 3.—All day long the leading citizens of Minneapolis have been at work arranging for the relief of the fire sufferers, and the work to-night is well under way. A carload of food and clothing will be shipped to Pine City in the morning and other relief as fast as it can be arranged. Already the cash contributions amount to over $2,500. The Firemen's Relief association appropriated $1,000 and the police department will be similarly generous. Resolutions have been ordered engrossed by the business men which will be sent to James M. Root, the engineer of the unfortunate St. Paul & Duluth train, as a token of their appreciation of his bravery.

Grave Situation from Forest Fires.

ISHPEMING, Mich., Sept. 4.—The gravity of the situation from the forest fires is demonstrated with every added hour. The long-continued drought displays no signs of abatement while the morass adjacent to the city is aglow with flame. The dense load of smoke envelops the country for many miles, obstructing business and offering constant menace to travel. Dust and ashes are falling in showers. Sagota and Floodwood, on the Milwaukee & Northern, are being hourly threatened; also Even and neighboring towns on the Duluth extension of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic Railway Co. No one is yet reported missing from Ishpeming.

The Firebugs at Work.

ASHLAND, Wis., Sept. 3.—The smoke and dirt-begrimed settlers of the forest have been struggling into Ashland all the forenoon with tales of losses of homes and everything on their farms. To add to the excitement at Washburn, incendiaries got out and commenced starting fires in different portions of the city. Five have been arrested, three of them caught in the act. When first arrested, rumors of lynching were prevalent. Large numbers of deputies were sworn in and placed on guard at different parts of the city, with instructions to guard the docks in particular.

THE SUN OBSCURED

By Smoke from Forest Fires—Fighting the Flames.

DODGEVILLE, N. Y., Sept. 3.—The sun has not been seen here for nearly a week, so dense is the smoke overhead from forest fires, both north and south. There is so much smoke, however, that many people believe a large proportion of it comes from the great fires in the west.

The United Press correspondent drove twenty miles north of here to investigate, and found no less than a dozen fires burning in the woods. Most of them were north of the Canada lakes, in the neighborhood of Caroga, but they have not yet reached the valuable spruce tracts lying south of Caroga.

The fires are being fought stubbornly by the farmers, and it is believed their spread into the spruce belt can be prevented. Two fires are burning in Oak mountain, near Deveraux, with a prospect of taking off most of the timber. There is no telegraphic communication north of here, and no details as to the damage can be obtained. Reports have been received, however, of extremely disastrous fires in Lewis and Ulster counties. There has been no rain in this section, with the exception of one light shower, for many weeks and the soil is very dry. Unless rain falls soon the damage in the Adirondacks will be enormous.

THE ARKANSAS ELECTION.

Democratic Gains Indicating a Majority of Fifteen Thousand.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 3.—Reports received from twenty of the leading points in western Arkansas, covering eleven counties and including such cities as Helena, Jonesboro, Ozark, Camden and Pine Bluff, show that the democrats have gained ground. In this part of the state the populists looked for their strongest support on account of the large negro population; but from different causes, lack of interest and knowledge as to how to handle the ballot, it appears but few of them voted. Remmel, the republican candidate, easily leads Barker, the populist candidate. Basing the totals on the returns now received, the total will reach 115,000. Clarke, democrat, will receive 65,000.

Baseball.

The following games were played yesterday.

At Boston.—First Game—Boston, 5; Chicago, 4. Second Game—Boston, 11; Chicago, 1.

At Philadelphia.—First Game—Philadelphia, 8; St. Louis, 1. Second Game—Philadelphia, 6; St. Louis, 4.

At New York.—First Game—New York, 10; Cincinnati, 2. Second Game—New York, 6; Cincinnati, 4.

A Battle with Outlaws.

GETTYSBURG, Okla., Sept. 4.—A gang of outlaws in Mills county robbed a number of people and murdered an Indian, then gave battle to a posse of officers, wounding one and having one of their number killed. A large posse of deputy marshals started in pursuit last night.

Poisoned at a Wedding.

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 4.—At a wedding breakfast near Iannine, Rankin county, a large number of the guests were poisoned by eating boiled custard. Three children of the neighborhood and W. W. Moore, of Madison station, are dead. Many are seriously ill.

An Oklahoma Cloud-Burst.

GETTYSBURG, Okla., Sept. 4.—A cloud-burst twenty miles north of here inundated a large section of country. Mrs. John McPike and two little daughters, and Miss Mabel Hill, of Kansas, were overtaken while crossing a stream by the rush of water and drowned.

An Arid District.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Sept. 4.—Beyond an occasional shower of short duration not a drop of rain has fallen in this city or within a radius of twenty-five miles since May. Crops of all sorts are a complete failure.

Waiting for the Old Rate of Wages.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Sept. 4.—The carders at the Globe yarn mill, where the somewhat unsatisfactory notice was posted that the mills would run, have decided not to return to work unless the old rates of wages are paid.

Cholera in Germany.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Acting Secretary Chas. of the state department was notified yesterday by a cable message from Consul-General Mason at Frankfurt-on-the-Main that cholera had broken out at Burgela, near Marburg, Germany. No particulars were given.

Cholera in Galicia.

VIENNA, Sept. 3.—There have been 823 fresh cases of cholera and 313 deaths in Galicia in the last three days. In Bullowina there have been forty-six fresh cases and twenty-five deaths in the last three days.

The last cheap excursion to Chicago will be run by the Wabash Saturday night, Sept. 15th. A special train will leave Decatur at 10.30 p. m. This will be the banner excursion of the season. Full particulars will be given in a day or two. 3-d8, 11

The Wabash earnings for the last week in August amounted to $419,829.33, for the month of August, $1,227,853.03, a decrease of $15,508.21. This is the best showing of any month of the year, and indicates clearly that the tide has turned toward prosperity once again. Last year's passenger earnings for August were, of course, very heavy on account of the fair.

George Haray and others, residing on West Decatur street made a vigorous kick to-day because it was proposed to change the grade of two blocks of the street to be paved. It was understood that the grade had been permanently established and lots were filled up to suit. Now it is proposed to raise the grade six inches. No wonder Harry and others object. Who wouldn't?

The well known actor, M. B. Curtis, will appear at the Grand next Monday evening, Sept. 10, in his famous character of "Sam'l of Posen." Mr. Curtis will be supported by a company said to be the finest ever engaged for this play, including Albena DeMer, in her original character. The company is at the Grand opera house in St. Louis this week and the play has been entirely re-written up to date and speaks highly of the company and the performance given.

The remains of the late W. B. Farmer were placed in the grave at the Fairview church cemetery, eight miles northeast of Sabers, in Champagne county, on Monday afternoon. The pallbearers were members of Decatur Sons of Veterans camp and of the Decatur Guards: Jacob Faust, Harry Palmer, Thomas Owens, Oliver Baylor, Frank Wise and C. E. Wise. Miss Minnie Miller, Miss Kittie Walsh, Miss Melbie Radloff and Miss Ida Miller, members of the Ladies' Aid society, were present.

Last evening Muthig & Nelson, the tailors in the Odd Fellows' building on North Main street were robbed. Mr. Nelson was at supper and his partner was sitting out in front of the store. The back door was open to let the clothing have air. When Nelson came back from supper two suits of clothes, an overcoat and a cutaway coat were missing. The goods amounted to about $100. There is no clue to the thieves.

Proprietary owners on North Edward street who have been served with notice by action of the council in ordering that an ordinance be drawn to pave the street, are now discussing with more or less earnestness the proper width of the street. Many believe that 35 feet will be fully wide enough. It is a street 60 feet wide. If it is paved 40 feet wide, but 10 feet on each side will be left for sidewalks and boulevards.

W. C. Langdon and W. Lee, Chicago & Eastern Illinois switchmen, while scuffling on the foot board of a switch engine at Danville, fell off and were run over. Langdon was killed and Lee fatally injured. Langdon was from Dayton, Ohio. In order to avoid the blacklist it is believed he passed under an assumed name and that his real name is W. C. Dawley. Lee resided in Danville.

CHARLES COOK, who has been eight years at sea, does not care to return to the briny waters. He has had enough of them and prefers to stay on land. He was a castaway for many days in a boat with eleven companions, and only three survived. The others, famished for water, either died of exhaustion, cut their own throats, or jumped into the sea to become food for the sharks.

The barber at Ward's shop, west side Lincoln Square, was arrested last night by Marshal Lehman and Officer Park for having attempted to cut Elmer Morthland with a razor. The trouble grew out of a kick given a dog. The barber broke the razor in trying to cut Elmer. The razor struck a plug of tobacco and broke. The barber is in jail.

The street railway track on South Water street is to be put in use by the company every night there is anything of a crowd at the Grand. The cars were lined up on the track the night of the "Hot Tamales" show to the evident satisfaction of the people who came out of the hall anxious to get home.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3, 1894.

Does Mr. Cleveland wish the Democrats to lose control of the house? He has certainly done a number of things recently which indicate that he does, and quite a number of the shrewdest observers of things political at the national capital have stated their opinion to be that Mr. Cleveland would be glad to see either the Republicans control or the Populists hold the balance of power in the next house. His last act before leaving Washington was to appoint a long list of postmasters, three-fourths of whom were opposed by the Democratic congressmen from their districts; thus apparently adding all he could to the difficulties already being experienced by the so-called Democratic congressmen. He is also at the bottom of the row in the Democratic congressional campaign committee, which will probably result in that committee not sending out any tariff documents at all, leaving every Democratic candidate free to decide for himself whether he will defend or abuse the sugar trust tariff law.

The theory of those who believe this to be Mr. Cleveland's position is that he has quite enough Democratic legislation and wishes to see Congress in a position where it can do nothing for the next two years, except to pass the regular appropriation bills. He hopes by that time that the people will have forgotten the disastrous first two years of his administration, and that he will have at least a fighting chance to be re-elected should he succeed in getting the nomination again, which he is egotistical enough to believe that he can easily do, notwithstanding his being or bad terms with nearly every prominent member of his party. There is one little drawback certain to defeat this scheme, even should all the rest of it work the people will not forget.

Secretary Gresham either has a short memory or he thinks the American people have. When the tariff bill was pending in the senate, news was cabled from Europe that if the sugar trust schedule became a law Spain would retaliate by abrogating the reciprocity agreement under which American products were given special rates by Cuba and Porto Rico. So great an impression did that cablegram make on the senate that a resolution was adopted asking the secretary of state if he had any knowledge of an intention upon the part of Spain or any other country to retaliate upon the United States because of the tariff bill. In answer to that resolution Secretary Gresham said he had no such information and intimated that nobody else had and that he did not believe any country contemplated such action. Now, when the state department is in possession of the official notification of the abrogation of the reciprocity agreement with Spain for Cuba and Porto Rico, he says he is not surprised and that he expects other countries to abrogate the reciprocity agreements made under the McKinley law. It looks as though Mr. Gresham also allows the interests of the sugar trust to regulate his official utterances.

Mr. Philip T. Colgrove, chairman of the State League of Republican clubs of Michigan, is visiting Washington. He says: "The Democrats will make a poor showing in Michigan this year. The grand old party will sweep the state by fifty thousand to seventy-five thousand majority. It can beat the combined opposition of Democrats and Populists, with the Prohibitionists thrown in. Of the twelve congressional districts, the Republicans will carry all but the first."
